The Last Dosage

by MiaQc

Summary

A strange story with multiple endings. A police officer is sent to an apartment. A woman in distress tells him that he must give Him his last dose of medicine.

- A translation of La Dernière Dose by MiaQc

A police officer, with nothing specific about him, is sent to an apartment. A distressed woman tells him that he must give Him his last dose of medication.

“Who is ‘Him’?” the policeman asks the woman. “Your husband?”

The woman just yells instead of answering him.

“Ma'am, calm down. I can't help you if you keep shouting like that.”

But the woman continues to scream and cry. Despite everything, she points to a table. On this table are syringes. Six in total. All of them contain a different colored liquid: blue, yellow, purple, red, dark red, and green. The police officer asks the woman if this is the medication. She nodded her head.

“Which one?”

“I don't know!” she finally said. “But this is His last dosage. His fate depends on you!”

The policeman finds this situation very strange. He wants to call for backup but his radio refuses to work. He also notices that his body camera has turned itself off. Finally, with no other choice, the policeman takes a syringe and the woman tells him that He is waiting for him in his room.

The police officer enters the room. He finds himself in a long corridor. At the end, a strange male creature, half-man, half-bird, is waiting for him. It is twice his size.

“Finally,” he said, “the last dose of my medicine.”

“What the hell are you?” asked the policeman.

“Don’t be vulgar,” replied the creature. “Little blue guardian. Now, the injection, please.”

Purple syringe.

The police officer injects him with the contents of the purple syringe.

“Ahhh, I feel strange. This isn't the right medicine,” said the creature before dropping dead on the floor.

The officer's radio starts working again, as does his body camera. He blinks and the creature's corpse is gone. As if he had never existed.

The police officer leaves the room. The woman has also disappeared. The apartment seems abandoned. The other syringes have vanished. Wondering if he is going crazy, the policeman leaves the apartment.

END: Dead creature.

Dark red syringe.

The police officer injects him with the contents of the dark red syringe.

“Ahhh, I can feel its effect,” said the creature, which began to double in size. “Everything alright, little blue guardian?”

The policeman begins to feel afraid. The creature is a giant compared to him. Without thinking, he flees the apartment. Immediately his radio starts working again, as does his body camera.

END: Giant creature.

Blue syringe.

The police officer injects him with the contents of the blue syringe.

“No, no, noooooo!” said the creature as it transformed into a dark-haired man.

“What the...?”

“What have you done, you wretched cop?! You've ruined my dream!”

The man tried to attack the police officer but the cop pinned him to the ground.

“Enough! I'm placing you under arrest!”

The man screams in despair as he is handcuffed and the policeman hears the woman scream with joy.

“FINALLY THIS NIGHTMARE IS OVER!” she said, joyfully.

END: Human again.

Yellow syringe.

The police officer injects him with the contents of the yellow syringe.

“Hmm,” said the creature, “nothing is happening. This isn't the right medicine. Normally I would kill you for this mistake, little blue guardian, but I won't do that. After all, you wanted to help, didn't...?”

The creature doesn't even finish his sentence before he scares the policeman to death with a jumpscare!

END: Jumpscare.

Green syringe.

The police officer injects him with the contents of the green syringe.

“Hmm,” said the creature, “nothing is happening. It's not the right medicine, but that's okay. After all, you wanted to help, didn't you? You can go now, little blue guardian. I feel... relaxed, serene. It's wonderful!”

The policeman, compelled by an invisible force, leaves the apartment. Immediately his radio starts working again, as does his body camera.

END: Serenity.

Red syringe.

The police officer injects him with the contents of the red syringe.

“Ahhh, I can feel its effect!” said the creature. “Thank you, little blue guardian. My dream is about to come true. Free...dom...”

The creature transforms into a colorful bird. The bird lands on the policeman's shoulder. Confused, the police officer leaves “the room.”

“Finally,” said the woman who had calmed down, “this nightmare is over. Take him away, I never want to see him again!”

She was talking about the bird. The confused policeman leaves the apartment. Immediately his radio starts working again, as does his body camera. The bird flies away immediately. The policeman never saw it again nor the woman.

END: Dream come true.
